Two Collisions In ELWC Parking Lot Send Four BYU Students To Health Center

Four Cars Pile Up More Than $600 Total Damage

Two accidents occurred five minutes and twenty feet apart in the ELWC parking lot early Monday morning and sent four BYU students to the Health Center.

HOSPITALIZED with lacerations and abrasions were Donald Davies, sophomore from Salt Lake City; Steven McNeal, graduate student from Lakeview, Oregon; and Bobby Newsome, freshman from Virgie, Kentucky. They were reported "doing fine" at the Health Center Mon. evening.

A fourth student, Kenneth Wikes, Idaho, was treated for a cut over the right eye and the released.

ACCORDING to Captain Sven Nielsen of BYU Security, the accidents occurred at 7:35 and 7:40 a.m. The first involved a 1965 Chevy noel driven by Richards Hemmings and a 1953 Plymouth driven by Davies, with McNeal and Newsome as passengers.

The second accident involved a 1951 GMC pickup driven by Leland Patten, a non-student from Provo, and Wikes' 1965 Mustang.

CAPT. NIELSEN said both accidents happened in the same manner—cars coming from the north colliding with cars coming from the east. The Wikes-Patten collision resulted from the drivers watching the first accident instead of their own driving, Nielsen said.

Damage was quite extensive in the first collision. Davies' Plymouth was totally demolished, Nielsen said, and Hemmings' car received approximately $500 damage.

DAMAGE to both cars in the Patten-Wikes accident amounted to $150.

Captain Nielsen said that no citations have been issued to any driver pending a complete investigation of the accidents.

Senator Moss To Lecture On 'Y' Campus

U.S. Senator Frank E. Moss will address BYU students three times Friday.

SEN. MOSS will speak to combined classes, but students and faculty are invited to attend, according to Dr. Stewart L. Crow, director of the BYU Institute of Government Services.

The current program to arrive at an arrangement to bring water from Canada will be Sen. Moss's topic for his first talk. He will speak at 8:00 a.m. in 321 Wilkinson Center, the Little Theatre.

SEN. MOSS's second talk will be at 2:00 p.m. in 278 Jesse Knight Bldg.

The Little Theatre will again be the location of Sen. Moss's final talk on his reorganization proposals for the federal government. This talk will be at 3:00 p.m.

Covey Will Speak

Tuesday's devotional Assembly speaker will be Stephen R. Covey, administrative assistant to President Ernest L. Wilkinson. He is presently a member of the Church after a leave of absence in which he served as president of the Irish Mission of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is presently a member of the Church Priesthood Missionary Committee.

Dr. Nels Ferre, Noted Theologian To Lecture

A leading Christian theologian, Dr. Nels F. Ferre, will be on campus this week as guest of the Academic Emphasis Committee to discuss "Progress and Morality" in a series of lectures.

DR. FERRE is one of the most prolific writers on contemporary Christian thought and enjoys a wide reputation throughout the Christian world. "We are fortunate to have him on campus as one of those theologians who still profess a belief in God," said Noel Reynolds, chairman of the Academic Emphasis Committee.

On Wednesday from 10 to 11 in the Lounge Area of the Smith Family Living Center, Dr. Ferre will open his discussions on the subject, "The Source of Morality—God, dead or alive?"

"CAN THERE BE Moral Progress in History?" entitles the next lecture to be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Varsity Theater of the Wilkinson Center.

Wednesday evening at 8 Dr. Ferre will be featured in a panel discussion, "Can You Trust Your Conscience?" Other members of the panel will be Dr. Truman Madson, H. Donald Peterson, and Leon R. Hartshorn. The discussion will be held in the Experimental Theater of the Harris Fine Arts Center, and will be televised.

ON THURSDAY at 11 in the Recital Hall of the EFAC, "Moralism and Morality" will be the topic. And that afternoon at 2 in the Varsity Theater, "Model for Moral Progress" will be the concluding lecture.

Seven of Dr. Ferre's books have been placed on reserve in the library, according to Noel Reynolds. Other of his books can be purchased in the bookstore. The public is invited to attend all discussions.

Students Need To Watch For Flu

Students who had their influenza shots at the beginning of the year and students who have not had their immunization shots yet are urged to get them by Dr. Cloyd C. Hofheins, director of the McDonald Health Center.

DR. HOFHEINS said that people with heart disease or liver or kidney ailments are extremely susceptible. The influenza epidemic which began in California is expected to hit the campus in about three weeks, he added.

Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre will visit BYU campus this week o inaugurate the Academic Emphasis Committee's series of "Progress and Morality" lectures. He will discuss "The Source of Morality—God, Dead or Alive."

George Washington: Young Leader

On February 22, 1732 was born the first President of the United States and probably one of America's greatest and youngest military leaders. George Washington became connected with the military when his brother Lawrence died and he inherited part of his estate, and with it he became district military adjutant.

Washington first gained public notice at the age of 21 when he fought in the French and Indian Wars. In 1755, as aide-camp to the British General Edward Braddock in the disastrous expedition against Fort Duquesne, Washington established his reputation as a military leader by rallying the survivors and convincing them to back in orderly retreat. In 1758, commanding colonial forces supporting the British regulars, he distinguished himself anew in the final capture of the French stronghold.

Peace being restored, Washington, not yet 27 years old, retired to private life. Fifty years later, when after the American Revolution broke out at Lexington and Concord, he was named commander-in-chief of the Continental forces.

Few military leaders have faced greater difficulties. Washington's troops, unorganized and poorly disciplined, were militia on such short terms of enlistment that during the first years of the war his armies were in a continuous state of disbandment and retraining. Congress, functioning more like an assembly of ambassadors than as representatives of one nation, had little power and failed to provide essential equipment, supplies, and soldiers' pay. To these difficulties were added the jealousies and intrigues of insubordinate officers. Nonetheless, he maintained the field against trained armies of British regulars and German mercenaries.

As we celebrate Washington's birthday today, it is well to notice the accomplishments he made in his early years. He did not become a national leader as an older man but was a leader of men in his early twenties. The year 1732 was a long time ago; however, youth is still dominating many of the great accomplishments of our time similar to the pattern that George Washington set.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Gov't. Change Necessary?

by Darryl H. ASBYU Press Sec

Student government at BYU, or any other college, is worthless unless it meets the needs of students. And both might be better off if it took place.

Let's talk about the average college student first and me.

Most of the time we are concerned about getting degree and making preparation for a successful life of us don't pay attention to student government activities. Unless, however, someone makes a decision that it should have gone the other way.

Take for example the ticket distribution problem at athletic events. A lot of us have our own idea of how should be distributed, but that's about as far as it goes.

Why don't we, in this case, take our idea to the Student Athletic Board? Or to other student leaders in cases as budget administration, voting procedures, etc. Too often we tell a few friends of our suggestions, but rarely voice our opinions to a leader where it could do some good.

ASBYU President Bob Christiansen, the vice-presidents, executive assistants, and on down through the student body, invite student "feedback." How can they know whether or not the needs of the students are being met in student government? They need some answers and suggestions from you and me.

Office hours for most student leaders are 3-5 p.m. school days, fourth floor Wilkinson Center. Go there. There is no one more important than a fellow student with ideas, proposed changes, or constructive criticism. Let's emphasize that "student" government is organized to give each student a voice, but it's up to the student to take advantage of it. And I agree, a face exchange of ideas is better than a letter to the editor. Let's turn our attention to the student body.

Is he or she meeting the needs of the students? If no answer in terms of specific objectives is offered, just some food for thought. Might be quite interesting to those considering a campaign come elections.

It sometimes happens that internal problems are important to some student leaders than providing necessary programs to meet the needs of an ever expanding student body.

By this I mean they are too worried about what blazers to wear, they will have which desk, who will have the electric typewriters, and who won't have a typewriter at all. Then there is the never ending struggle for authority with the administration, and sometimes among themselves, when they should be making decisions for the students and presenting new ideas to the administration.

How about the responsibility and decision making? Too often student leaders, for fear they will make a wrong decision, fail to try new and different ideas right or wrong. They are afraid to assume the responsibility if it goes wrong. They sometimes fail to consult an advisor or someone who could render helpful information. I propose that for fear they might get told "no," it is not that advisor's purpose to say no.

But when these things happen—is it really the student's fault? Or is he rather a victim of circumstances, trying to prove his potential in a critical time of his life by bucking it on his own? Maybe present and potential student leaders ought to take toll of their objectives personally and ask themselves—where am I going?

After all, the purpose of student government is to be a voice of the students to the administration, community and the world. Of course it is impossible to please all students, but perhaps something might be done by sides to stimulate interest in student affairs.

Politics From The Faussett...

Trip Unites U.S., Vietnam

President Johnson took a positive step recently in uniting the Vietnamese and the United States in a more common effort toward victory in Viet Nam.

AFTER MUCH criticism of the conduct of the war by several members of Congress, even from the President's own party, Johnson flew off to Honolulu with members of his Cabinet, to clarify and explain the U.S. policy to the Vietnamese leaders.

He thereupon announced a two-fold plan to conquer the Viet Cong on two fronts. He called for

How To Get Academic Freedom?

Academic and student freedom has long been a great concern of college students in the United States.

But a student in Russia has taken positive steps which have resulted in a degree of freedom that is unusual even for the United States.

It seems that a Russian student got mad at a professor in Moscow who flunked his wife, thinking that the professor had insulted his wife's intelligence.

So, he broke the professor's nose.

Result? The courts let the student go with a reprimand, but praising him for his chivalry.

Now Russian professors are afraid to flunk their married women students.

If this catches on at BYU, professors may have a little more to worry about from their students than the faculty evaluation tests.

Zoology Department Researches Pest Control

Research which will be of significance to all Utahns and eventually all of the Western U.S. is currently being carried on in the BYU Zoology Dept.

WORKING under a two year $17,000 research grant from the Entomology Division of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, Dr. Cive D. Jorgensen hopes ultimately to achieve a type of pest control eliminating complete dependence on chemicals such as DDT which can be harmful to humans and animal predators.

When the research is completed Dr. Jorgensen hopes to achieve a balance between biological and chemical factors for the control of pests.

DR. JORGENSEN is particularly concerned with mites and their relationship to fruit trees. To date Dr. Jorgensen along with four graduate students have identified more than 17 types of predaceous and plant-feeding mites in central Utah apple trees. Until this time the types weren't even identified.

The next step in the program will be to discover the interrelationship of the various species and find out just exactly why they are there. The last phase of the program will be to set up an experimental management program of the orchards.

DR. JORGENSEN hopes then an integrated program of chemical and biological control factors will reduce costs in controlling pests as well as eliminating dangerous poisons.

Stories Sought For Magazine Before March

Poems and essays are wanted for the spring publication of the Wye Magazine, according to Don Hammer, editor. The deadline is March 1.

SHORT STORIES have been submitted in sufficient number, said Hammer, but very few poems or essays have been brought in.

The Wye Magazine is a student magazine, and its size and quality depends on students' contributions, said Hammer. Entries should be turned in to the College of Humanities office, 300 McKay Bldg., or to the English Dept., 337 McKay Bldg.

"THE EMPHASIS will not be so much on subject matter as on high quality writing," Hammer explained, referring to the new issue. Departments of the magazine include short stories, poetry, humor, and essays.

Hammer added that most of the artwork in this semester's WYE will be photography. Photos may also be submitted. Photo entries or essays also be turned in at 300 or 337 McKay.

STUDENTS who feel they have writing ability but can't decide on subject matter may contact Douglas Hill, faculty advisor, for ideas on essay subjects.

Wilmer Tanner Elected To Science Group

Dr. Wilmer W. Tanner, professor of zoology and entomology at BYU, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Academy Conference, an affiliate of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

THE ACADEMY Conference is a combination of all Academies of Sciences, Arts and Letters in the United States. The group sponsors the national junior academy program and its research reporting competition among high school students.

Dr. Tanner is former secretary-treasurer and currently chairman of the biological science division of the Utah Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters, and the first Utahn to hold an office in the group.

HE WILL travel to St. Louis, Mo., March 4 for a business meeting of Academy Conference.

27 Pilot Says Engines Failed To Respond

Testimony Released On Hearings

SALT LAKE (AP)—The pilot of a Boeing 727 said Monday the airliner failed to respond when he gunned the jet engines and pulled back on the controls to avert a hard landing that resulted in a fiery crash killing 43 passengers last November.

UNITED AIR LINES Capt. G. C. Kehmeier, 45, of Denver, Colo., said the lack of response indicated the plane was nearly in a stall. A stall is where a plane loses its lift and is unable to be controlled due to speed and angle of flight.

Co-pilot Phillip E. Spicer, who was at the controls when the 727 began its landing approach, said he started to increase engine power earlier but was told by Kehmeier to wait awhile.

SECOND OFFICER R. R. Christensen, the engineer, said he was a little uneasy because he thought the approach was at a greater than normal descent.

The 727 hit hard, short of the runway, and burst into flames. Fifty of the 91 aboard got out, but two died later. Forty one were burned to death or suffocated on the spot.

THIS WAS the only one of four fatal crashes of 727s since last August where the men at the controls survived to say what happened. The four crashes killed 254 persons.

Depositions from Kehmeier, Spicer and Christensen were taken shortly after the accidents, but they were not made public until Monday.

The CAB's Inquiry Board Chairman, John G. Adams, gave highlights of those depositions in his own statement opening Monday's public hearing in Salt Lake City.

ADAMS STRESSED no determination of the cause of the crash would be made during the three-day hearing. The board will take testimony under consideration and make that determination later, perhaps in six months or a year.

The Federal Aviation Agency's Deputy Director of Flight Standards, Cliff W. Walker, said after a meeting of airline experts last week: "We have found nothing to indicate that this (the 727) is other than a completely airworthy, properly certified airplane, nor do the companies and the pilots who fly them."

BUT WALKER SAID the 727's capability of descending more rapidly than other jets—the so-called "sink rate"—calls for great alertness on the part of the pilots.

Adams, in summarizing the highlights of Kehmeier's deposition, said:

"AT ABOUT 5,500 feet, initial power application to reduce sink rate by First Officer Spicer brought no response from the engines and Captain Kehmeier took control. He advanced the throttles to take-off power several hundred feet above the ground, still without response.

"He pulled back on the elevators a little, but there was no response, which indicated to him that he was very close to a stall."

Elevation of the Salt Lake Airport is 4,200 feet.

Country Gains Independence

Humphrey To Warn U.S. About China

MANILA, (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will return home from his nine-nation swing Wednesday with a new mission—to alert the American people that Red China is a growing menace throughout Asia.

THIS BECAME known on the highest authority Tuesday shortly after Humphrey arrived around midnight from New Zealand for talks with President Ferdinand Marcos.

Humphrey was hustled out of the closely guarded airport by a back gate to avoid 100 leftist demonstrators who paraded out front with signs saying "Get Out of Viet Nam" and "Go Home Butcher."

The group was protesting a bill before the Philippine Congress to send Filipino combat engineers to Viet Nam.

Earlier, 1,000 leftist students and others picketed Congress, the Presidential Palace and the U.S. Embassy. They shouted "Humphrey Go Home" in front of the embassy.

Outstanding Depth Provides Future As Pumas Close Dual Tank Season

The BYU swim team has several members who seldom make the headlines but who none-the-less gather their share of points and contribute to the team's overall effectiveness.

TYPICAL OF THIS group of swimmers is Wyatt Earp, a sophomore from Indianapolis, Ind. Earp takes quite a bit of ribbing about his name (and that is his name) but he takes his swimming seriously. Last week he was down with the flu but still made it to most of the workouts and to the meet Saturday night. He came in second, by three feet, in the 500-yd. freestyle.

Lenny Oh, a freshman from Honolulu, swims the freestyle and breaststroke events. Oh is consistently lessening the amount of time it takes him to swim from one end of the pool to the other. Oh, and others on the squad, help push the faster men of the squad to even greater heights.

PETER FEIERABEND (pronounced Fire-robin) is another freshman that gives everybody competition. Feierabend swims the butterfly, freestyle and individual medley. He has won several firsts this year and now holds the team record in the 500 yd. freestyle.

Ed Rudloff swims freestyle and butterfly. He's a freshman from Santa Rosa, Calif. who helps anchor down the relay teams.

THERE ARE TWO Prices on the team, again both freshmen. Tony Price hails from Glendor, Calif. and Grant Price is from Las Vegas, Nev. Both of them have been frequent contributors to the BYU total points gained in meets.

John Chester, Bill Southworth and Steve Pearl are another trio of donors to total points for the BYU swim team.

CHESTER SWIMS breaststroke while Pearl and Southworth add to the freestyle strength of the team.

The Cougars are 8-3 for the season this far and have just two more meets before the WAC championships.

Friday they move to Gunnison, Colo. to take on Western State and the next day, Saturday, they will take on the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs.

Gunsnoke can't claim all the glory as BYU has it's western hero on the swim team. Wyatt Earp is fast because of the fastest draws in the Western Conference

To any kid who'd like to go somewhere: We'll pay half your fare.

The idea's not as crazy as it may seem.

Anytime we take a jet up, there are almost always leftover seats.

So it occurred to us that we might be able to fill a few of them, if we gave the young people a break on the fare, and a chance to see the country.

The American Youth Plan*

We call the idea the American Youth Plan, and what it means is this:

American will pay half the jet coach fare for anybody 12 through 21.

It's that simple.

All you have to do is prove your age (a birth certificate or any other legal document will do) and buy a $3 identification card.

We date and stamp the card, and this entitles you to a half-fare ticket at any American Airlines counter.

The only catch is that you might have to wait before you get aboard; the fare is on a standby basis.

"Standby" simply means that the passengers with reservations and the servicemen get on before you do.

College Receives $1,000

An endowment of $1,000 for a college journal has been received by the BYU College of Family Living, according to Virginia Cutler, dean of College of Family Living.

THE MONEY was donated by Maxine Grimm of the Philippines, a graduate of the University of Utah and member of the College Council. She also donated 10 looms for an evening weaving class.

The journal, which will include accounts of the college's activities, is ready for publication.

THEY first met when they were both students at the Central School of Speech and Drama in London. Chad Stuart was then nine years old.

While working as junior arranger for a music publishing firm, Chad wrote "Yesterday's Gone," which he wanted to record. It was only after he met Jeremy again and they began singing in a coffee house that they were heard by a recording executive who liked their style and had them record Stuart's songs.

AS A MUSICIAN Chad Stuart plays the piano, organ, guitar, mandolin, lute, harmonica, violin, trumpet and flute. Sailing, tennis and ice skating take up his outside activities.

Jeremy Clyde graduated from the University of Grenoble, France. After receiving training at the Central School of Speech and Drama, he went to work as an actor and appeared in such productions as "Hamlet," "The Miser," and "A Man For All Seasons And Roads."

JEREMY is an avid reader and prefers works by William Shakespeare. He states that he likes "girls and clothes and girls," and also likes an occasional movie "as long as it has girls in it."
